

Chapter 1: How Professional News is Created

- The Job of the Journalist
- Types of News Sites
- Types of News Stories
- Professional News Procedures
- The Complexity of Doing Journalism Well

Gestation of a News Story

- Idea for story
- Pitch idea to editors and staff
- Story assigned
- Preliminary research
- Scheduling and conducting interviews
- Fact checking and follow-up
- Writing first draft
- Edits and rewriting
- Publication/airing
- Social media posts (possibly before this)

Types of News Web Sites

- Newspaper
- Broadcast news outlet
- Web-only news outlet
- Blog
- Aggregator

Types of News Web Sites

- Newspaper
  - Professional
  - Oldest form of news outlet
  - Stories on website usually contain text and photos from paper; some Web-only content
  - “Shovelware”
- Broadcast news outlet
  - Professional; Radio or TV
  - Story packages – mix of video from TV and written stories
  - Sometimes live feeds of broadcasts

Types of News Web Sites

- Web-only news outlet
  - Professional (mostly)
  - HuffPost, BuzzFeed, Mashable, Gizmodo, etc.
  - No way to exist offline
  - Content can vary; usually a mix of text, audio, video
  - Often subject-specific
- Blog/Discussion site
  - Usually not professional; often not news
  - Reddit, Hive, Quora, etc. (4chan?)
  - Can contain all kinds of content
  - Often personal, subject-specific

Types of News Web Sites

- News aggregator

- Corporate (mostly)
- Google News, Apple News, Flipboard, NewsNow, SmartNews, etc.
- Use algorithms to gather news stories from existing sites
- Most create no content, hire no reporters or editors
- Some now testing AI to create and write new stories from pieces of existing ones

Types of news stories

- Breaking news
- Hard news
- Features
- Enterprise stories
- Opinion pieces

Professional News Procedures

- Generating story ideas
- Gathering information
- Fact checking
- Context and completeness
- Price of making mistakes

Complexity of doing journalism well

- Journalists' level of effort often unrecognized
- Audiences don't distinguish between reported news and gossip or uninformed online chatter
- Journalism serves many communities
- Every mistake is amplified
- Easier to criticize than do the job
- Chapter 1 – journalists comment on this